

Artificial intelligence is widely used in healthcare. Machine learning models assist doctors in medical diagnosis and treatment planning across many hospitals worldwide today. These systems improve patient outcomes significantly.